Dear Friends and Colleagues,

Warm Greetings from KMCH institutions and Dept of Microbiology, KMCH-IHSR

The era of molecular diagnostics has risen to great heights with the COVID pandemic and has now found a prominent place in almost all diagnostic laboratories across the country. A cutting-edge field like molecular infectious-disease testing mandates an exemplary quality control program to strengthen confidence in laboratory performance and support prompt clinical management of patients. Amidst evolving regulations around molecular testing, many Laboratory professionals find establishing and maintaining an effective QC program for currently available and newer molecular techniques challenging.

As an Institution with excellence in quality as its key focus, we at KMCH-IHSR bring eminent subject experts from across the country, in a virtual platform to share their knowledge, expertise & best practices, and to address the challenges faced in implementing quality standards in molecular biology testing either for in-house developed or commercially procured test assays.
